Multilingualism is the use of more than one language, either by an individual speaker or by a community of speakers. It is believed that multilingual speakers outnumber monolingual speakers in the world's population. More than half of all Europeans claim to speak at least one language other than their mother tongue; but many read and write in one language.

English is a West Germanic language that was first spoken in early medieval England and eventually became a global lingua franca. Named after the Angles, one of the Germanic tribes that migrated to the area of Great Britain that would later take their name, England, both names ultimately deriving from the Anglia peninsula in the Baltic Sea. It is closely related to Frisian and Low Saxon, and ...

1. Introduction. Although the acronym CLIL is sometimes presented as an umbrella term comprising not only immersion and modular subject learning through another language but even student exchanges and homestays (Mehisto et al., 2008: 12-19), its typical context would be classrooms in Europe where academic subjects such as geography or science are taught in English by non-native content ...
